Why Must Women Go Asking for Trouble?

NEW YORK WOMEN who want New York women to sit on juries are now engaged in telling the Legislature so, just as they have argued in vain every year since women got the vote. There are five bills pending to permit women to serve as jurors in this State. The legislation is supposed, for some occult political reason, to have a better chance this year than formerly. And, as usual, we are divided between puzzled wonderment as to why men object to women on juries, and wonderment equally puzzled as to why women want to be on them. If any reader of this column can solve either problem for us, we'll be glad to hear from him or her.

So far as we can see, there simply are not any sound arguments against the jurywoman. In New Jersey, the State that is our legal residence, she has been functioning for years, and the well-known "Jersey justice" has maintained the even—and swift—tenor of its way. Over the Hudson, it's hardly even news, any more, when women enter the jury box along with men.

Homes do not crash into ruin because New Jersey women are jurors. Husbands do not starve, nor babies cry. As for the "sentimental" female juror turning loose the criminal, there isn't any female juror more sentimental than the male of the species. There couldn't be!

The addition of women to the panels from which jurors are drawn is both a quantitative and a qualitative addition. It is notorious that many of the most intelligent men are chosen except from the service—or simply because they so dislike it and are so busy—manage in one way or another to evade it. The intelligent wives and daughters of these men, made eligible for such service, are far more likely to perform it.

When we stop to think of the facial expressions and the language of men we know who have been called for jury duty, we simply cannot comprehend the masculine unwillingness (in New York) to wish off the job, as far as possible, on women; to give them at least the opportunity to shoulder their share of it.

YET, on the other hand, why, oh, why do New York women go asking for trouble by asking to serve on juries? This is a different matter from asking for the usual duties and pleasures. It means—as we have covered enough trials to understand—sitting for long hours on hard seats in an abominably ill-ventilated courtroom, and being either bored or revolted for most of those hours. It means, to any sensitive person, an appalling assumption of responsibility.

Women, it seems to us, prove themselves the conscientious sex and then some, by asking—even demanding—the juror job. Oh, no, women do not need it to make sure that their own sex receives justice at the hands of the law! No matter how good a feminist she may be, the newspaper woman who has been assigned to cover the courtroom witness, is perfectly safe in trusting to a jury of men. Such a jury (or, rather, such jurors) one may guess to have been responsible for the cynical popular line that "a woman can get away with murder!"

Of course, it may be that women—miserable creatures—fear man is not getting a fair courtroom deal from a jury of his own sex, and that women yearn to get into the jury box in order to give it to him—yes, that's what we said. Do we here approach the real reason for the New York man's opposition to women jurors? Is he afraid of their sitting in judgment on his fellow-men?

Oh, well, we give it up. We hope that we are a modern woman, with a modern woman's interests, but in this yen to be settled with one of the dullest and most inconvenient chores of citizenship we simply cannot share. Without prejudging one local objection to jurywomen, neither do we perceive one logical urge for them.

How about it?

Again the upside down cake, sometimes called skillet cakes, interest column readers more than the usual run of cakes. Emerging from the skillet with frosting and garnishment intact, the rather unorthodox cake serves the family or company adequately and engagingly.

From first to last, the upside down cake breaks all the rules of cake making. The frosting is prepared first instead of last. The cake batter, and it may be a butter or sponge variety, is poured over the last covers the last utensil a conservative cook would use for cake baking, a heavy iron skillet.

Taste determines the frosting which, after all, makes the cake. Pineapple, peach, apricots, pears or dates are some of the fruits liked. Melted butter and brown sugar with pecan or walnut meats and the fruit spread over the frying pan become the frosting after the baking. Maple syrup or sugar and butter and plenty of pecans make a very good frosting.

Hot or cold, with or without whipped cream very worth while eating is

- PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE
- One-half cup butter
 - Five or six slices of pineapple
 - One scant cup pecan meats
 - Three or four eggs
 - One and one-half cup granulated sugar
 - One-half cup pineapple syrup
 - One and one-half cups cake flour
 - One and one-half teaspoons baking powder
 - One-half teaspoon salt
 - One-half teaspoon vanilla
 - Baking time of cake: forty-five minutes

COUPLES PIQUES OF ELITE SHOW

Clive Brook, who was Ruth Chatterton's leading man in "Charming Sinners" is to be seen and heard in support of the Paramount star for the second time when "The Laughing Lady" comes to the Fox-California theater for a two day run beginning tomorrow.

In this comedy-drama of society life which deals with wealthy New Yorkers, their foibles and dilemmas, Miss Chatterton is the wife of a wealthy banker who thinks more of his Wall Street than he does of his home sweet home. She becomes the innocent victim of a scandal at Southampton, fashionable seaside resort, and when her husband learns of it through the press, he divorces her without further ceremony.

Clive Brook is the friend of the husband and the lawyer who effects the victory for him against his wife in the divorce trial.

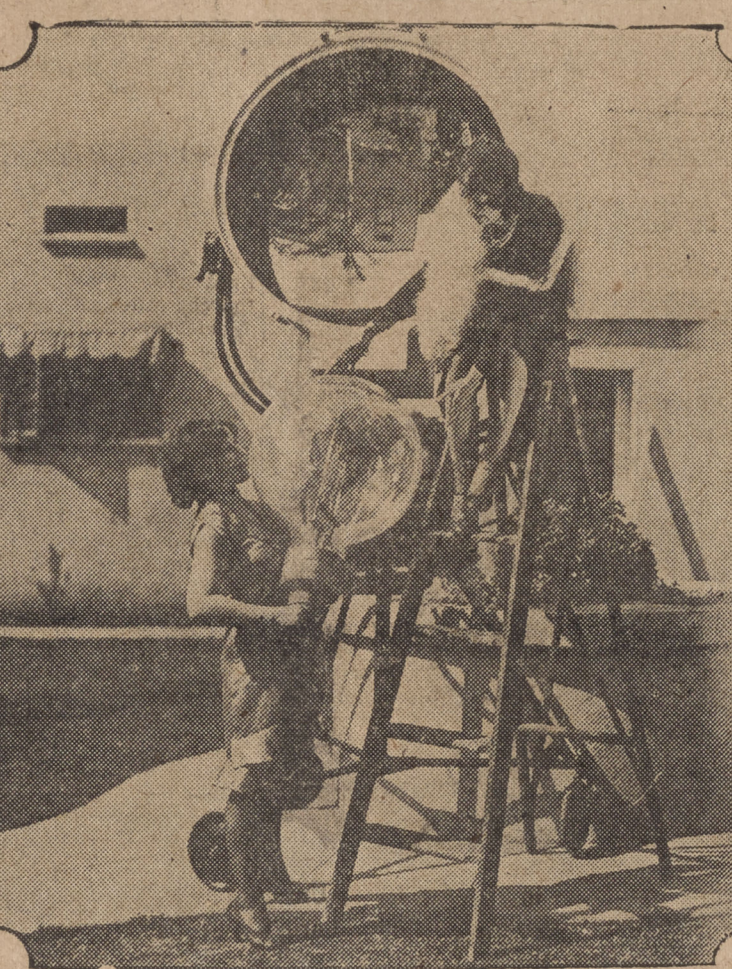

The subsequent proceedings are alternately humorous dramatic and romantic.

The story is derived from Alfred Sutro's play of the same name which had a great success on Broadway. Bartlett Cormack and Arthur Richman adapted the story for the talking screen.

Victor Seitzinger directed the picture. He made "Redskin" and "Nothing But the Truth." One of his earlier successes in the old silent days was "Forgotten Faces," a picture which, paradoxically enough few movie fans have forgotten.

A talking comedy "Dangerous Females" with Polly Moran and Marie Dresser is also on the bill.

Don't Drop It

RUTH ROTH and Lolita Vendrell are installing a huge incandescent light bulb for a motion picture studio. It is said to be the world largest light bulb.

"CONDEMNED" BRINGS NEW LAURELS

Additional proof that Ronald Colman is one of the finest actors on the screen in this era of talking pictures arrived in the Fox-California theater last night in "Condemned" his latest starring picture for Camuel Goldwyn. His performance in the handsome, gallant convict of this picture of life in prison accented first that combination of romantic appeal, understanding, humor and genuine tragic appeal which have long been features of his acting.

The other members of the cast performed brilliantly as well. The producers seem to have ransacked the slums of California for criminal types in the mass scenes of the French convicts, and Ann Harding as the appealing heroine made good use of both her extraordinary blond beauty and acting talent in a striking contrast with the sordid surroundings of the picture.

Louis Wolheim turned in another of those well worked out characterizations which have made his villainous countenance a proverb in films. Dudley Digges, noted stage actor, as the brutal warden, brings a fine flavor to his first picture, and is said to have had a hand in its direction as well.

"Condemned" would be an event in pictures even without the services of such a cast, since its locale and direction earn it an extraordinarily high place. Laid on Devils Island, the noted French penal colony on the coast of South America, it gave remarkable and well-exploited opportunities to director and scenarist to exploit the picturesque possibilities of "The Island of Living Death." Pictorially, it is even more striking than Colman's latest triumph "Bull-Doze Drummond." The sound effects achieved in the storm scene sequence and the remarkable flexibility of the dialogue make it a new departure on the talking screen.

Its story is that of love growing between the mistreated wife of the warden of Devil's Island and one of the convicts who serves in the warden's house as the wife's helper. The mad rage of the warden at hearing gossip about his servant and his wife throws them into each other's arms before either of them has dared speak feelingly to the other. The working out of this situation is too subtle and too satisfying to be described here—it is an absolute novelty and a complete variation on the conventional happy ending.

A talking comedy "Don't Get Excited" is also on the program.

Colman Wins New Laurels

RONALD COLMAN is winning a host of new friends through "Condemned" in which he is appearing at the Fox-California theater.

PLAYS PLANNED AT RICHMOND HIGH SCHOOL

Two Spanish plays in English have been arranged by Dorothy Cox, faculty adviser of the International club. The plays are "A Sunny Morning" and "The Basket of Fruit."

"A Sunny Morning" consists of one act, and has been successfully presented by several little theaters in the east. "The Basket of Fruit" is a short, humorous skit.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver discharge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantax to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all foul secretions and at the same time restore the torpid, lazy liver to proper working order. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, salivary skin, sour stomach, gas, nervous attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

Plantax is made from the juices of harmless medicinal plants—Nature's own remedies—that act in a mild, easy way without "weakening or irritating the organs." Try it tonight. A large bottle $3 at any good drug store.

You can do better at the Ashby.

MOTORS MEET EAGLES IN FINALS

Oakland Winter league baseball fans will witness the classic of this season when the Thomas Motors clash with the Oakland Eagles nine Sunday in the finals of this year's league.

By handing a defeat to the San Leandro athletes last week-end the Eagles gained the right to dispute the league title with the local diamond cowboys. At present, everything points to a rather torrid dispute when the two league leaders thresh out their important argument Sunday.

The Thomas squad has been heavily weakened by the recent loss of a number of boys who are now taking their fling for Coast league honors. However, the local's have succeeded in patching the holes in their lineup fairly well and showed some of their old strength last Sunday when they humbled the Dammo nine of San Francisco by a score of 9 to 5. In their contest with the visitors from the other side of the bay, the Motors had nothing at stake, while next Sunday practically all this season's hopes will be in the balance. The Richmondites are therefore expected to be able to make an even better showing next Sunday against the Eagles. However, the Eagles are no mean baseball players and will be no easy game for the local athletes.

If the Thomas aggregation is victorious Sunday, it will gain the title of the entire Oakland Winter league, as it already was champion of the first round of the league. In case the Oaklanders come out on the big end of the score, the Eagles will be titlists of the second round, and another game will be necessary to decide the league championship.

The scene of Sunday's epic battle has not yet been announced by the league authorities.

WINGED R GIRLS CLUB FORMED AT HIGH

A girls' Winged R society was established at Richmond union high school when six leaders in girls' athletics at the high school met yesterday afternoon following school hours. Madeline Deholl was elected president of the association, while Edith Pucci was appointed secretary. Doris Nystrom was chosen as social chairman.

The six present members of the organization are: Nellie Adams, Dorothy Boswell, Madeline Deholl, Doris Nystrom, Edith Pucci, and Julia Robbins. Admittance to the society is based upon the earning of 500 points in athletics by the candidate. Membership in the organization is not easy to obtain, for only the six present members of the club possess 500 points in the field of girls' athletics. However, it is expected that membership will increase rapidly during the year as more girls enter the 500 point class.

Plans were made at last night's meeting for the presentation of a gym jinx before a meeting of the Richmond union high school Girls' League. The constitution of the Winged R society will be formed at next Tuesday's meeting of the organization.

The club is directed by Clara McLaurin of the high school faculty.

Local "Y" To Have Entrant In Bible Contests

Richmond will enter several contestants in the Y. M. C. A. California Bible and Bible knowledge competition, according to an announcement of Reynold Carlson, director of the local organization. Jimmy Hurley will represent Richmond in the singles of the tennis tourney to be played at the Berkeley Tennis club courts. Darrow Sutton and Phil Carlin will compose the local doubles. The date has not yet been definitely scheduled.

The religious essay contest of the California will end April 19. Richmond will be represented in the Bible reference and scripture reading competition also on April 19. The competition will be held among the Pioneer and Friendly Indian divisions of the Y. M. C. A. The contests will be held at the Oakland Y. M. C. A. The league will open May 6. The games will be played on the First street diamond, which is leased to the association. The contests will continue for 15 weeks. More than 120 names have been submitted by athletes desirous of positions on the Standard Oil teams. A committee has been appointed to choose the more promising players as members of the league squads. It seems to be the opinion of the majority of members of the club that the smaller number of teams will offer a better brand of baseball to the fans than if the league contained six outfits. The members of the committee chosen to decide who will see action this year are Chas. Freine, Al Schmitt, Jack Shively, Pat Trueman, "Dutch" Wetzel, and Howard French.

Troop No. 3 To Hold Swim

The meeting was held in the Peres school, with Scoutmaster Louis Rasmussen presiding.

S. O. LEAGUE PLANNED AT MEETING

Increasing enthusiasm for a four term membership in the Standard Oil baseball league was shown at yesterday's meeting of the Standard Oil Baseball association.

The decision to have four squads is not yet final, as the committee appointed to choose suitable material for the teams has not yet made its report. The teams certain of entering the league are the Mechanics, Barrelhouse, All-Standards, and the Refinery.

Plans for the supervision of finances were made at yesterday's meeting of the employees of the Standard Oil plant. Al Lilly is treasurer of the organization.

The league will open May 6. The games will be played on the First street diamond, which is leased to the association. The contests will continue for 15 weeks. More than 120 names have been submitted by athletes desirous of positions on the Standard Oil teams. A committee has been appointed to choose the more promising players as members of the league squads. It seems to be the opinion of the majority of members of the club that the smaller number of teams will offer a better brand of baseball to the fans than if the league contained six outfits. The members of the committee chosen to decide who will see action this year are Chas. Freine, Al Schmitt, Jack Shively, Pat Trueman, "Dutch" Wetzel, and Howard French.

The announcement of the revival of the Standard Oil Twi-light league has aroused great approval among former league players, and all prospects point to baseball club announced tonight, Standard Oil athletes go into action.

If Handmade Remember! Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

... the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency ... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Thousands of men who would gladly trounce a spitter caught in the act continue, nevertheless, to accept cigars rolled by dirty fingers and tipped with spit! And remember more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof... immaculate... foil-wrapped... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

Certified Cremo THE GOOD 5c CIGAR ... THAT AMERICA NEEDED

KEYES GOES TO SAN QUENTIN TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 11.—(U.P.)—Asa Keyes stood on the tenth floor of the Hall of Justice today and through a barred window took a last lingering look over the city where he grew up as a school-boy and later gained national fame as district attorney.

He was a prisoner in the county jail. Thirteen months ago he was convicted of betraying the trust placed in him by the people of Los Angeles county. A jury decided that he had accepted bribes to dismiss charges against those accused of wrecking the Julian Petroleum corporation.

Asa Keyes left for San Quentin prison by train tonight. Tomorrow he will become a mere number in a penal institution. Today, relatives and friends, rich and poor, prominent and unknown, bade him farewell.

Meets Father

There was a look of longing in Keyes' eyes as he stepped briskly down the jail corridor. Then he stopped by the window and looked out over the battleground where he won his successes, where his name came up out of the ranks and finally became that of a man convicted.

Between the bars he could see the historic old red courthouse with its famous "honeymoon elevator" in an open air shaft. Behind was the Hall of Records and across the street the towering new city hall, gleaming white in the mid-day sun.

In the gloomy courthouse his father, Charles Keyes, first of the family to hold public office, had once resigned as county clerk.

There in still used but forbidding courtrooms, the powerful voice of young Asa Keyes first was heard pleading for the people of Los Angeles county.

That was 25 years ago. Grave old judges and knowing attendants said "watch that young fellow; he's going up." Asa Keyes went up. His name became famous in great cases—William Desmond Taylor, Aimee Semple McPherson, Julian Petroleum, and a legion of others. Then came the crash.

Keyes and several others were indicted on conspiracy charges. Burton Fitts, who once had been Keyes' chief deputy, was his former chief prosecutor. Vigorous and unyielding, Fitts fought to obtain the maximum punishment for the man who had given him his start in public life. Keyes wept as he asked the jury to acquit him. Fitts won.

Claims Innocence

"I'm innocent," Keyes said today. For 13 months he has said that, fighting all the while in courts higher than the superior court where he was convicted.

"They said that my failure to gain a new trial in the appellate and state supreme courts has broken me. They're wrong. I'm still fighting. Whether the case will be taken to the United States Supreme Court my lawyers have not yet decided."

"I say it again—I am not guilty of the crime of which I was convicted. That's why I have spent 13 months in the county jail appealing, even if those months don't count on my sentence."

"The treatment given me here was splendid. My friends have stayed by me. I thank them."

Keyes faces a term of from one to 14 years in San Quentin prison. He seemed more weary than the Asa Keyes who roamed the Hall of Justice corridors as prosecutor, but not beaten.

Bank Manager Foils Bandit

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—UP—Instead of handing over $3000 demanded by a bandit who carried a revolver in a hat held in his hand, Manager H. W. Stockfish released the burglar alarm in the Western avenue branch of the Security First National bank late today. The bandit fled.

The open grave was banked with flowers.

Soldiers On Guard
The flag-draped casket was removed from the automobile hearse which took the place of the artillery caisson in the military procession to and from the capitol.

The sputter of motorcycles broke the stillness as automobiles discharged their distinguished passengers. Companies of marines, engineers, artillerymen and sailors, who formed a great hollow square around the oak grove in which the grave is located, snapped to attention.

Justices of the Supreme Court, and Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, the Taft family pastor who conducted the services, bare-headed and robed, preceded the casket up the slight incline to the grave.

Behind the casket were members of the family, Mrs. Taft on the arm of her son, Robert, and Mrs. Helen Taft Manning on the arm of her brother, Charles.

Hoovers There
President and Mrs. Hoover came directly behind the family and stood outside the canvas covering for a few minutes until room was found for them inside.

Gen. Pershing was there, as were Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, Col. U. S. Grant, III, Vice-President Curtis, and members of the Senate and House funeral committees.

A short prayer, reading of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," and a benediction completed the short services at the grave. A firing squad fired three volleys.

100,000 Present
Perhaps 100,000 persons viewed the last slow trip of the great man's body today, from the brick house on Wyoming avenue where he died Saturday to the capitol, thence to the church far out on sixteenth street and again across the Potomac to the famed Virginia burying ground. Government departments, Congress, and many stores closed in respect.

On the trip to the capitol in the morning, a squadron of cavalry preceded the flag-draped gun caisson, and another squadron followed. Seven gray horses drew the caisson, and the colors of the squadrons were slanted with a wisp of black hanging from the staff which bore the American flag.

At the capitol, soldiers, marines and sailors guarded the entrance.

Many See Body
The casket was lifted from the caisson, carried into the rotunda, and placed carefully on the catafalque where martyred presidents have rested. The lid of the casket was removed, and people began filing past, a line on each side, and all kept moving by a military guard with bared bayonets.

Beneath the glass was seen the thin and drawn, but serene face of the former president. He wore the black silk robes of the Supreme Court.

At the church in the afternoon, where the purely military character of the death observance ended, there was no funeral oration. It was as Taft wished. Dr. Pierce read from two poems, "The Happy Warrior," by William Wordsworth, and "Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington," by Alfred Tennyson. President and Mrs. Hoover, the Supreme Court, and Congressional committees joined with the family in mourning.

Many Present
Previous to the opening of the program, Mr. Jenkins introduced the following at the speaker's table:

Miss Annie Woodall, president of the California League of Business and Professional Women; Mayor A. L. Paulsen; Mrs. Marie S. Ripley, president of the Alameda district of Federated Clubwomen; A. B. Hinkley, R. L. Wharton, W. W. Scott, Christine Leonard, Mattie Chandler, Norah Ashfield, assistant superintendent of city schools; Marie Whitesides, Clara Mallanah, Mrs. W. H. Sanford, Mrs. Helen Kingsbury, Norma Goettel, Fred D. Parr, and Margery Haggerty.

Paulsen Welcomes
Paulsen welcomed the guests on behalf of the city and gave a humorous reply to a group of questions which Professor Blanks had passed out to those in attendance.

Mrs. Chandler extended an invitation to the club members to attend the clubwomen's convention to be held here in April.

Mrs. Woodall gave a general review of the business women's club movement. She pointed out that there were 47 state federations as well as federations in Hawaii and Alaska. She stated that these federations represented a membership of some 56,000. The slogan of the club members is "at least a high school education for every woman." Mrs. Woodall pointed out in discussing the aims and purposes of the club.

Women In History
Professor Blanks addressed, longer than the usual after dinner talk, held the interest of his listeners from beginning to end. He indicated that he had spent a great deal of study and time in research work of women and their position in life and the history of the world.

Although it has been repeated time after time that woman is inferior physically, mentally and morally, Professor Blanks pointed out through the aid of quotations from specialists in every walk of life that woman in reality was superior.

The fact that history, literature and religion have always considered women as an inferior person was laid directly at the floor of religion by the speaker.

He declared that although not a word is credited to Christ, placing the woman on a lower sphere than man, yet many of his followers had placed her in the background.

Matter Of Protection
This action no doubt, according to the speaker was largely caused by the feeling of man that if he once let woman get the upper hand he would be merely a figurehead in the scheme of things in this world.

Doctors have proven time after time that woman is constitutionally stronger than man, Professor Blanks contended. He cited several authorities for this contention.

General average of tests taken at the higher institutions of learning in the nation indicate that women study harder than men, he stated.

Mental Ability
"It is generally conceded that not so much the size of a person's brain or intelligence but the use that the individual makes of his inherent brain capacity proves the true test of mental ability," the speaker said.

Then citing figures to show that two thirds of the students in the higher institutions of learning were women, Professor Blanks contended that the majority of educated persons in the next generation would be women.

"The time is not far distant," said Professor Blanks, "when men will be allowed to work in this world but women will be ruling it. We are no longer governed by persons who hold that position because of the size of their biceps." He continued in part:

In Government
"We find that there are 145 women in the legislatures of the various states and the United States. There are only ten states in the union in which women are not found in the legislature. Although there is no woman on President Hoover's cabinet at the present time there is every indication that there will be one before his term of office expires."

"If every form of animal life we find equality of sexes with the exception of man. This inequality is artificial and has been gradually built up through time. But things are changing."

"We find that in practically every religion, woman is being given equal rights. The status of woman is advancing. Women own and control more than half the wealth of the United States. This wealth in the hands of women is constantly increasing."

"Unlimited powers are now in the hands of women. If they will take advantage of it they will soon take their rightful place in all phases of life and in every corner of the globe."
